INSPIRING WESTERN ARTISTS TO NEW HEIGHTS

ART OF THE COWGIRL

A CELEBRATION OF HORSEMANSHIP AND WESTERN ART
artofthecowgirl.com

ART OF THE COWGIRL IS A DREAM COME TRUE.

Women have played a significant role in ranching and the western way of life. Most of today's successful ranchers and western artisans have wonderful stories to tell about a wife, mother or grandmother who influenced their lives.

Art of the Cowgirl is designed to spotlight these wonderful women, while sharing the stories of their families, marriages and partnerships that, in turn, shaped them.

Your participation and support will ensure our great artistic and cultural traditions continue, and help women celebrate, gather and connect around horses and western art. The event will feature female makers, master artists, silversmiths, braiders, saddle makers and horsewomen.

More importantly, Art of the Cowgirl also provides fellowships to individuals to further their knowledge with master artists in the trade of choice. The contributions of these cowgirl makers are truly worth celebrating, and we look forward to sharing them with you.

With Cowgirl Spirit at Heart,

Tammy Pate

“Your participation and support will ensure our great artistic and cultural traditions continue, and help women celebrate, gather and connect around horses and western art.”

OUR MISSION

Art of the Cowgirl Foundation's mission is twofold:

Celebrate accomplished artisans and horsewomen through its event and other year-round media platforms, and to provide funding through its fellowship for emerging artists in the development of their crafts and businesses through the Fellowship Program.

“Art of the Cowgirl is special because we have women from all walks of life together with the focus on the horse. There’s so many disciplines and people, but they’re all still tied together with the horse.”

– NANCY MARTINY, 2021 & 2024 Master Saddlemaker

The Art of the Cowgirl event is a gathering to celebrate cowgirls and their contributions to the western lifestyle and culture through workshops, horsemanship clinics, an all women’s ranch rodeo, music, art auction, and an all women’s horse sale.

The Fellowship Program supports emerging artists and expands their knowledge and skills through fellowships and mentoring by Master Artists in their respective fields.

THE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

Art of the Cowgirl's Fellowship Program encourages and furthers western art and trade among women artisans, both continuing tradition and inspiring innovation.

By establishing mentorship and investing in up-and-coming artists, Art of the Cowgirl fosters creativity and preserves traditional art and functional gear. In providing these experiences, our hope is that age, location or lack of funds will no longer be a limiting factor for those interested in pursuing art and artistic trades.

Whether it's fine art, functional trade or horsemanship, Art of the Cowgirl Fellowships seek to enrich, empower and educate — all while honoring western heritage.

Art of the Cowgirl will fully fund up to seven fellowships each year, with all expenses paid for the Master Artist and Fellowship Recipient. Master Artists offer up to two weeks of teaching at their various locations, and Fellowship Recipients commit to invest their time in the experience.

Fellowship Recipients also receive funding to travel to the annual Art of the Cowgirl event, where they will present their work and donate an item to the Fellowship Auction, which supports the next class of aspiring artists.

Applying for the program is a competitive process, and it's grown in popularity each year. In spring 2024, more than 300 artists applied for the fellowships.
